Purpose of the Handbook

This Personnel Handbook contains a summary of the policies and guidelines in effect at Atrio Home Health Care, LLC as of your employment start date, as well as updates and new additions on an ongoing process. This handbook is to be used as a guide by Atrio Home Health Care, LLC's employees and is not intended to create any contract of employment. Instead, your employment relationship with Atrio Home Health Care, LLC is at-will. This means that you are not required to work for Atrio Home Health Care, LLC for any set period of time. You remain free to terminate your employment at any time and for any reason upon proper notice. Atrio Home Health Care, LLC also remains free to terminate your employment at any time and for any reason that does not violate local, state or federal law with or without notice.

These policies are subject to change, modification, or amendment at any time in Atrio Home Health Care, LLC's sole discretion with or without prior notice.

We at Atrio Home Health Care, LLC are dedicated to providing competent and professional services to the clients who we serve. We expect that our employees will perform in the same manner. We expect you to follow these standards of conduct and policies at all times. Infractions may be used as grounds for disciplinary action.

Employment Practices

Selection and Hiring

All employees must meet all applicable rules and standards outlined in licensing requirements as dictated by county, state or federal government agencies. Atrio Home Health Care, LLC will not discriminate against any employee or candidate regardless of race, color, creed, religion, national origin, sex, sexual orientation, disability, age, marital status, or status with regard to public assistance. All decisions regarding the recruitment, selection and placement of employees are made solely on the basis of position-related criteria. Every effort will be made when hiring new employees or promoting current employees to match their skills, knowledge, abilities and interests with positions that best utilize their talents.

Sexual Harassment/Offensive Behavior

It is the policy of Atrio Home Health Care, LLC that harassment on the basis of protected status (race, creed, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, with regard to public assistance, disability, age, membership on a local human rights commission and sexual orientation), including sexual harassment is prohibited.

Such harassment violates the law, creates an offensive working environment, decreases productivity, adversely affects the positive working relationships, increases

costs to the

AHHC.

agency and tarnishes the image of the agency and everybody associated with it. No employee may engage in verbal or physical conduct that degrades or shows hostility or aversion toward an individual because of that person's race, creed, color, religion, sex, national origin, marital status, status with regard to public assistance, disability, age, membership on a human rights commission or sexual orientation, or that of the person's relatives, friends or associates, if the conduct:

AHHC.

1. Has the purpose or effect of unreasonably interfering with the persons work performance, or
2. Otherwise adversely affects that person's employment opportunities.

One form of prohibited harassment is sexual harassment. Sexual harassment is defined as:

1. Making unwelcome sexual advances or requests for sexual favors or other verbal or physical conduct of a sexual nature a condition of an employee's obtaining employment or continuing employment; or
2. Making submission to, or rejection of such conduct the basis for employment decisions affecting an employee; or
3. Creating an intimidating, hostile or offensive working environment or otherwise substantially interfering with an individual's employment by such conduct; or
4. Retaliating against an employee for complaining about such conduct.

Procedure: Complaints Relating To Prohibited Harassment

An employee who believes he or she has been subject to harassment prohibited by this policy should report the incident immediately to his or her supervisor, agency administrator, or human resource personnel.

The complaining employee will be asked to put the facts surrounding the offensive conduct or communication in writing. Thereafter, the investigation may include interviews with the employee making the charges, the accused employee, and appropriate witnesses, depending upon the individual circumstances of the matter.

Determination of whether prohibited harassment occurred will be made on a case-by-case basis, depending upon the circumstances of the matter, including the type of harassment alleged, the context in which the alleged harassment occurred and any other facts deemed relevant. The employee making the complaint will be advised of the final disposition of the matter

Discipline For Prohibited Harassment

A violation of this policy may be grounds for immediate discipline, up to and including discharge, or other appropriate action.

Complaints or Grievances

A complaint should be in writing, contain the name and address of the person filing it, and briefly describe the action alleged. A complaint should be filed in the office of the within 30 days after the person filing the complaint becomes aware of the alleged action.

AHHC.

The Administrator will conduct an investigation of the complaint to determine validity.

AHHC.

The Administrator will issue a written decision determining the validity of the complaint no later than (30) days after its filing.

Confidentiality

Confidentiality of all client and/or family concerns is required by Minnesota State Regulation and HIPPA. Disclosing any confidential information or improperly discussing any client condition is grounds for immediate termination.

Probationary Period

All employees are considered probationary for the first 90 days of employment. This is to ensure a satisfactory performance relationship has been established.

Performance Evaluation

Atrio Home Health Care's commitment to excellence is fulfilled in part through an on-going performance improvement process. Evaluations are objective and intended to improve performance of individual employees as well as the company. We believe and in exceptional performance.

An employee's job performance will be evaluated at the end of his/her 90-day probationary period and may or may not be documented. And randomly on an ongoing basis. Direct care workers in the field will be evaluated every quarter.

An annual evaluation will be performed on or before the employee's anniversary date of hire. The annual evaluation will be documented and will be retained in the employee's confidential personnel file.

Cadi waiver / 245D Employee Education Training

Annual 245D workers will annually train to maintain employment. All 245D or cadi waiver workers are required to comply with this requirement. In-service instruction/lecture, videotapes, and quizzes are available at the office, online and can be viewed, by appointment, and or at your convenience. Completing of any Training offered at our office, or online or by third parties will be documented and be part of each employee's file.

Voluntary Resignation

Field staff who resign are requested to give a two week notice. Administrative staff are requested to give a three-week notice. If an emergency arises, a shorter notice may be agreed upon between the employee and Administration. An employee who resigns without prejudice and who has a satisfactory record may be entitled to re-employment with Management approval. No recommendation will be furnished on an employee whose services are terminated with prejudice or for disciplinary reasons.

The employee is responsible for requesting alternative clients should the employee be dismissed from the client for whom he or she is hired to work. Failure to do so will result in the assumption of your voluntary resignation.

Grounds for Termination

Evidence of the following are grounds for immediate termination with valid circumstantial data. The Administrator may use the event for strong disciplinary action rather than termination, but usually not.

AHHC.

1. Dishonesty
2. Theft
3. Incompetence
4. Racial intolerance
5. Failure to obey reasonable instructions.
6. Reporting to work intoxicated or under the influence of a controlled substance.
7. Failure to notify employer of absence from work.
8. Insubordination
9. Client abuse or misuse
10. Profanity
11. Falsification of records
12. Giving confidential information pursuant to Minnesota Law
13. Violation of patient rights pursuant to Minnesota Statutes
14. Violence on premises
15. Failure to report evidence of Vulnerable Adult Act violations.

All of the above conditions are grounds for immediate termination. Any new employee shall be subject to discharge at the option of the employer during the 90 days of work. No employee shall be suspended, demoted or dismissed without sufficient cause. If after proper investigation it is verified that an employee has been disciplined unjustly, he or she will be reinstated, however, that no claim for compensation for time lost shall be paid. In the case of a dismissal, the employee affected may request and shall receive from the employer in writing the reason for the dismissal. Employees so disciplined during the probationary period, shall forfeit all other benefits, except earned wages during the time that he/she worked. Accumulation of one verbal and one written notice is cause for dismissal.

Arbitration Policy

If an employment dispute arises while you are employed at Atrio Home Health Care, requests that you agree to submit any such dispute arising out of your employment or the termination of your employment (including, but not limited to, claims of unlawful termination based on race, sex, age national origin, disability, breach of contract or any other bias prohibited by law) exclusively to binding arbitration under the federal Arbitration Act, 9 U.S.C., Section 1. Similarly, any disputes arising during your employment involving claims of unlawful discrimination or harassment under federal or state statutes shall be submitted exclusively to binding arbitration under the above provisions. This arbitration shall be the exclusive means of resolving any dispute arising out of your employment or termination from employment by Atrio Home Health Care LLC, or you, and no other action can be brought by employees in any court or any

Involuntary Separation

Employees whose services are terminated by disciplinary action or for just cause are not eligible for re-hire.

LEAVES OF ABSENCES

Leave of Absence Procedure

A request for a leave of absence shall be in writing and submitted to the Director at least two weeks in advance. Failure of the employee to return on the expiration date of the leave of absence will result in termination of the leave and employment.

Parental Leave

A leave of absence without pay is granted to all expectant parents, who are generally expected to return to work fulltime.

GENERAL WORK RULES

Sick Calls/Cancelled Visits

If an employee cannot make it to a scheduled visit/shift, a call must be made to the Atrio Home Health Care, LLC staffing department. If made during office hours (Monday-Friday, 8:00 a.m.- 4:45 p.m.), the employee must speak directly to the Scheduler to ensure that the information will be directed to the client in a timely manner. Sick calls/cancelled visit messages are NOT to be left on Voice Mail. A 4hr hour advance notice is requested if possible. Late notice is grounds for disciplinary action and possible termination, if repeated.

Replacement Staff

If your replacement staff is 15 minutes late, please call the office. We will make every effort to locate the staff and call you back with an explanation and/or substitute. You are required to remain with the client until arrangements can be made.

I am aware that during the course of my employment confidential information will be made available to me, for instance, product designs, marketing strategies, customer lists, pricing policies and other related information. I understand that this information is proprietary and critical to the success of Atrio Home Health Care, LLC and must not be given out or used outside of Atrio Home Health Care, LLC 's premises or with non-Atrio Home Health Care, LLC employees. In the event of termination of employment, whether voluntary or involuntary, I hereby agree not to utilize or exploit this information with any other individual or company.

I acknowledge that the programs and statements outlined in the booklet are to be regarded only as guidelines, not guarantees, which the Company may, in its sole discretion, change as needed in order to manage its work force to the Company's benefit as Atrio Home Health Care, LLC deems fit.

Additionally, I acknowledge that no promise of job security has heretofore been given to me and that there are no such promises contained in the Handbook since I am employed AT WILL and may resign at any time or be fired from my job at any time, with or without notice and with or without cause.

Atrio Home Health Care, LLC Consent for Criminal Background Checks

Atrio Home Health Care LLC's requires that each caregiver under the direction of Atrio Home Health Care LLC undergo a criminal background check through the Minnesota State background system before becoming eligible to provide Home Care services to clients.

This background checks would consist of:

A criminal history search from records maintained by the Minnesota State Police – Minnesota Criminal History Record

1. Information contained in the Minnesota Criminal History Record.
2. Information maintained by the Minnesota Department of Corrections

The findings of those background checks would determine the individual's suitability for employment or continued employment. Under the law, no entity may employ or contract with any person under the entity's control who has or is expected to have access to its clients if the entity knows or should have known:

1. That the person has been convicted of a "serious crime";
2. That the person has pending against him/her a charge for a "serious crime";
3. That a unit of government or state agency has made a finding that the person has abused or neglected any client or misappropriated the property of any client;
4. That a determination has been made under the child abuse and neglect statutes that the person has abused or neglected a child

Releases and Applicant's Signature

In connection with my application for employment and as a condition of continuing employment, I understand that investigative background inquiries may be made on me including previous employers, schools, consumer credit, criminal convictions, motor vehicle, and other reports. These reports will include information as to my character, work habits, performance, education, compensation, and experience along with reasons for termination of employment from previous employers. Furthermore, I understand that the company may be requesting information from various federal, state, and other agencies which maintain records concerning my past activities relating to my driving, credit, criminal, civil, and other experiences as well as claims involving me in the files of insurance companies. I authorize without reservation, any party or agency contacted to furnish the above mentioned information and release all parties involved from liability and responsibility for doing so. I hereby consent to obtaining the above information from Atrio Home Health Care, LLC and/or any of their agents. This authorization and consent

AHHC.

BLOODBORNE PATHOGENS

Goals: This safety session should teach you to:

- A. Know what bloodborne pathogens are and how they spread.
- B. Understand why and how to follow universal precautions.

OSHA Regulations: 29 CFR 1910.1030

1. The Bloodborne Pathogens Standard Helps Prevent Exposure to HIV and HBV

A. Bloodborne pathogens are disease-causing microorganisms in blood and other body fluids.

- 1. HIV is the bloodborne pathogen that causes AIDS and destroys the immune system, preventing the body from fighting disease.
- 2. HBV, or Hepatitis B, is the bloodborne pathogen that infects the liver and can lead to such problems as cirrhosis or liver cancer.
- 3. OSHA's Bloodborne Pathogens Standard covers the steps employers and employees must take to prevent exposure to possibly infected blood or other body fluids.
- 4. The regulation applies to workers at health care facilities, emergency responders, law enforcement professionals, and others whose jobs could expose them to human body fluids.
- 5. Note for those who work in hospitals: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) recommends following "standard precautions," which expand precautions to reduce the risk of transmission of microorganisms from both recognized and unrecognized sources of infection in hospitals.

2. HIV and HBV Are Spread Through Direct, Not Casual, Contact; HIV and HBV are transmitted by:

- A. Sexual contact, shared drug needles, being stuck by an infected needle or other sharp instrument, or direct contact between broken or chafed skin and infected body fluids.
- B. HBV is also spread by contact with caked, dried blood and contaminated surfaces.
HIV and HBV are not spread by:
- C. Coughing or sneezing, touching an infected person, or sharing equipment, materials, toilets, water fountains, or showers with an infected person

3. Universal Precautions Prevent the Spread of Bloodborne Infection

A. Universal Precautions means: Treat all blood and body fluids as if they are infectious.

4. Universal Precautions Include Using PPE to Prevent Possibly Infectious Contact

- A. Wear gloves if there's a risk of direct contact with body fluids or with possibly contaminated items or surfaces.
- B. Bandage cuts or broken skin before putting on gloves.
- C. Wear eye and face protection if there's a risk of blood splashes or sprays.

AHHC.

- D. Wear protective clothing if there's a risk of contact with body fluids.
- E. Use only PPE that's been inspected for damage before wearing.
- F. Remove contaminated PPE carefully so contamination doesn't touch your skin.

AHHC.

G. Dispose of contaminated PPE in proper containers so contamination can't spread.

5. Universal Precautions Include Good Hygiene

A. Wash hands and exposed skin carefully with soap and water after exposure.

- B. Flush eyes, nose or mouth with water as soon as possible after contact with blood or potentially infectious materials.
- C. Don't eat, drink, smoke, apply cosmetics, or handle contact lenses in areas that could contain infectious materials.

6. Universal Precautions Include Avoiding Direct Contact With Sharps

- A. OSHA says to treat all sharps as though they're contaminated.
 - 1. Don't shear or break or bend needles.
 - 2. Don't reach your hand into a container that might contain sharps.
 - 3. Use tongs or a similar tool, not your hands, to clean up broken glass.
 - 4. Place all used sharps immediately in puncture-resistant, leakproof containers.

7. Apply Universal Precautions to Possibly Contaminated Materials and Surfaces; OSHA requires:

- A. Prompt and proper cleaning and decontamination for equipment or surfaces that have had contact with blood or potentially infectious materials
- B. Wearing gloves and using leakproof transport containers to handle laundry that may have had contact with blood or other potentially infectious fluids

Summation: Precautions Prevent Exposure to Bloodborne Pathogens

Take care to avoid direct contact with blood or other body fluids and to thoroughly clean and decontaminate anything that does make that contact.

Referral and Coordination Procedures: Reporting Abuse, Neglect, Exploitation, and At Risk Participants

Boil Water Advisory:

1. You should boil tap water vigorously for at least one full minute prior to using it for drinking or cooking (the minute starts when the water begins to bubble). This includes water used for brushing teeth, making ice, washing raw foods, preparation of drinks, and water for pets. Wait for the water to cool before using it, or store it in the refrigerator in a clean container. Boiling removes harmful bacteria in the water that may cause illness. You should throw away ice made during the time the advisory or notice was issued, as freezing does not kill bacteria.
2. After an advisory has been lifted (if contamination of the water system did occur), you should flush household pipes, ice makers, water fountains, etc. prior to using for drinking or cooking. Flushing simply means letting the water run to ensure that no contaminated water remains in your pipes. Follow these guidelines for flushing:

- a. Run all cold water faucets in your home for one minute

- b. To flush automatic ice makers, make three batches of ice and discard
- c. Run water softeners through a regeneration cycle
- d. Run drinking water fountains for one minute
- e. Run water coolers with direct water connections for five minutes.

Aging Process

Aging is a gradual, continuous process of natural change that begins in early adulthood. During early middle age, many bodily functions begin to gradually decline.

People do not become old or elderly at any specific age. Traditionally, age 65 has been designated as the beginning of old age. But the reason was based in history, not biology. Many years ago, age 65 was chosen as the age for retirement in Germany, the first nation to establish a retirement program, and it continues to be the retirement age for most people in developed societies, although this tradition is changing.

When a person becomes old can be answered in different ways:

Chronologic age: Chronologic age is based solely on the passage of time. It is a person's age in years. Chronologic age has limited significance in terms of health. Nonetheless, the likelihood of developing a health problem increases as people age. Because chronologic age helps predict many health problems, it has some legal and financial uses.

Biological age: Biological age refers to changes in the body that commonly occur as people age. Because these changes affect some people sooner than others, some people are biologically old at 40, and others at later ages. However, most noticeable differences in apparent age among people of similar chronologic age are caused by lifestyle, habit, and subtle effects of disease rather than by differences in actual aging.

Psychologic age: Psychologic age is based on how people act and feel. For example, an 80-year-old who works, plans, looks forward to future events, and participates in many activities is considered psychologically young.

Normal aging:

People often wonder whether what they are experiencing as they age is normal or abnormal. Although people age somewhat differently, some changes result from internal processes, that is, from aging itself. Thus, such changes, although undesired, are considered normal and are sometimes called pure aging. These changes occur in everyone who lives long enough, and that universality is part of the definition of pure aging. They are to be expected and are generally unavoidable. For example, as people age, the lens of the eye thickens, stiffens, and becomes less able to focus on close objects, such as reading materials (a disorder called presbyopia). This change occurs in virtually all older people. Thus, presbyopia is considered normal aging. Other terms used to describe these changes are usual aging and senescence.

Exactly what constitutes normal aging is not always clear. Changes that occur with normal aging make people more likely to develop certain disorders. However, people can sometimes take actions to compensate for these changes. For example, older people are more likely to lose teeth. But seeing a dentist regularly, eating fewer sweets, and brushing and flossing regularly may reduce the chances of tooth loss. Thus, tooth loss, although common with aging, is an avoidable part of aging.

Also, functional decline that is part of aging sometimes seems similar to functional decline that is part of a disorder. For example, with advanced age, a mild decline in mental function is nearly universal and is considered normal aging. This decline includes increased difficulty learning new languages and increased forgetfulness. In contrast, the decline that occurs in dementia is much more severe. For example, people who are aging normally may misplace things or forget details, but people who have dementia forget entire events. People with dementia also have difficulty doing normal daily tasks (such as driving, cooking, and handling finances) and understanding the environment, including knowing what year it is and where they are. Thus, dementia is considered a disorder, even though it is common in late life. Certain kinds of dementia, such as Alzheimer disease, differ from normal aging in other ways as well. For example, brain tissue (obtained during autopsy) in people with Alzheimer disease looks different from that in older people without the disease. So the distinction between normal aging and dementia is clear.

Sometimes the distinction between functional decline that is part of aging and functional decline that is part of a disorder seems arbitrary. For example, as people age, blood sugar levels increase more after eating carbohydrates than they do in younger people. This increase is considered normal aging. However, if the increase exceeds a certain level, diabetes, a disorder, is diagnosed. In this case, the difference is one of degree only.

Healthy (successful) aging:

Healthy aging refers to postponement of or reduction in the undesired effects of aging. The goals of healthy aging are maintaining physical and mental health, avoiding disorders, and remaining active and independent. For most people, maintaining general good health requires more effort as they age. Developing certain healthy habits—following a nutritious diet, exercising regularly, and staying mentally active—can help. The sooner a person develops these habits, the better. However, it is never too late to begin. In this way, people can have some control over what happens to them as they age.

Some evidence suggests that in the United States, healthy aging is on the rise:

A decrease in the percentage of older people residing in nursing homes (even though the percentage of people who are over age 65 and who are over age 85 has increased in the general population)

A decrease in the percentage of people aged 75 to 84 who report impairments

A decrease in the percentage of people over age 65 with debilitating disorders

Life Expectancy

The average life expectancy of Americans has been increasing dramatically over the past century. A male child born in 1900 could expect to live only 46 years, and a female child, 48 years. Today, however, a male child can expect to live more than 76 years, and a female child, 80 years. Although much of this gain can be attributed to the significant decrease in childhood mortality, life expectancy at every age beyond 40 has also increased dramatically. For example, a 65-year-old man can now expect to live to about age 82, and a 65-year-old woman, to about age 85. Overall, women live about 5 years longer than men. This difference in life expectancy has changed little, despite changes in women's lifestyle, including smoking more and experiencing more stress.

AHHC.

Despite the increase in average life expectancy, the maximum life span—the oldest age to which people can live—has changed little since records have been kept. Despite the best genetic makeup and healthiest lifestyle, the chance of living to be 120 is tiny. Madame Jeanne Calment had the longest documented lifespan: 122 years (1875 to 1997). Several factors influence life expectancy:

Heredity: Heredity influences whether a person will develop a disorder. For example, a person who inherits genes that increase the risk of developing high cholesterol levels is likely to have a shorter life. A person who inherits genes that protect against coronary artery disease and cancer is likely to have a longer life. There is good evidence that living to a very old age—to 100 or older—runs in families.

Lifestyle: Avoiding smoking, not abusing drugs and alcohol, maintaining a healthy weight and diet, and exercising help people function well and avoid disorders.

Exposure to toxins in the environment: Such exposure can shorten life expectancy even among people with the best genetic makeup.

Health care: Preventing disorders or treating disorders after they are contracted, especially when the disorder can be cured (as with infections and sometimes cancer), helps increase life expectancy.

Working with Disabled Individuals

There are many ways that disabilities can affect the ability to perform effectively on the job. Levels of disability and ability are unique to an individual. Most accommodations are simple, creative alternatives for traditional ways of doing things. This section includes examples and suggestions for career development Caregiver and employers. Following these simple suggestions will help people with disabilities to fully participant in work-based learning experiences. They are by no means comprehensive. You and the interns with whom you work will have opportunities to generate uniquely effective ideas.

Low Vision

By "low vision" we are referring to people who have a visual impairment but have some usable sight. This includes some people who are "legally" blind. For people who have low vision, standard written materials may be too small to read and objects may appear blurry. Others may only see objects within a specific field of vision. Still others see images with sections missing or blacked out. Learning through a visual medium may take longer and may be more mentally fatiguing for people who have low vision than for people who do not.

Examples of accommodations for people with low vision include large print text, handouts, signs, and equipment labels. Many photocopy machines can enlarge text. Some people with low vision may also benefit from having career development publications, job instructions, or other printed materials recorded on audiotape. It may take weeks or months to procure materials in audiotape format. Consequently, it is essential that career counselors and employers select and prepare their materials well before they are needed.

Other examples of accommodations for people with low vision include providing seating where the lighting best meets their individual needs; making brochures, job announcements, and other information available in electronic format; and equipping computers with large monitors and screen enlargement software.

- Large print handouts, signs, equipment labels

- Seating where the lighting is best

- Work assignments in electronic format

- Computer with enlarged screen images

Blindness

People who have not had vision since birth may have difficulty understanding verbal descriptions of visual materials and abstract concepts. Consider the example, "This organizational chart looks like an upside down tree." If one has never seen a tree, it may not be readily apparent that the structure of note has several lines which can be traced up to one central point. However, a person who lost her vision later in life may find this verbal description easy to understand. Additionally, demonstrations based on color differences may be more difficult for people with blindness to understand than demonstrations which emphasize changes in shape, temperature, or texture. During presentations, meetings, and job-site demonstrations, a clear, concise narration of the basic points being represented in visual aids is helpful.

People who have no sight cannot read written materials in standard formats. Ready access to printed materials on computer disks or via the Internet allow blind workers, who have the appropriate technology, to use computers to read text aloud and/or produce Braille. Some materials may need to be transferred to audiotape. Since it may take weeks or even months to procure specific materials in Braille or on audiotape, it is essential that career counselors and employers select and prepare materials that are needed by a worker who is blind well before the materials are going to be used.

Other examples of accommodations for people who are blind include the provision of tactile models and raised-line drawings of graphic materials; adaptive equipment, such as talking calculators and tactile timers; and computers with optical character readers, voice output, Braille screen displays, and Braille printers.

In communicating with a worker who is blind, it is important to remember that the visual impairment does not affect his ability to think or to hear. Speak in a normal tone. In addition, consider the following suggestions.

To start a conversation, touch the person lightly on the arm or address him by name to gain his attention.

Ask the person if he would like you to orient him to a room and any obstacles you may perceive that it contains.

Use descriptive words such as, "in front of you at eleven o'clock," instead of vague language such as "over there." Keep in mind that a person who is blind cannot relate to hand or facial gestures.

Feel free to use visual words such as "look" and "see." Expressions such as these are commonly used by people who cannot see.

Always ask permission before interacting with a person's guide dog.

Hearing Impairments

Some people who have hearing impairments may hear at a functional level with the assistance of amplification devices such as hearing aids. Others hear only specific frequencies, sounds within a certain volume range, or nothing at all.

Written work assignments

Repeat questions and statements from other employees during meetings

Individuals with hearing impairments often use some combination of lip-reading, sign language, and amplification to understand spoken information. People who are deaf from birth generally have more difficulty speaking and understanding the structure of language than those who lost their hearing later in life. In a job setting, everyday noises -- fans and lights -- that are not a bother to hearing people, may have a profound effect on the ability of people with hearing impairments to hear. Career development providers and employers should make worksite adjustments to allow interns or employees to maximize their learning potential and success.

AHHC.

Individuals with hearing impairments may have difficulty following instructions when delivered in large and open settings, particularly if the acoustics cause echoes or if the speaker talks quietly, rapidly, or unclearly. They may find it difficult to simultaneously watch demonstrations and follow verbal descriptions if they are watching a sign language interpreter, a "real-time" captioning screen, or a speaker's lips. It may also be difficult for them to follow or participate in group discussions, particularly when they are fast-paced and unmodulated, since there is often lag time between a speaker's comments and their interpretation to people with hearing impairments.

Examples of accommodations for people who have hearing impairments include the provision of interpreters, sound amplification systems, note takers, visual aids, and electronic mail for meetings and office discussions. Visual warning systems for emergencies may also need to be installed.

The following suggestions can be employed when employers and career counselors communicate with a worker who has a hearing impairment.

Face the person with a hearing impairment and speak directly and normally to her.

If an intern who is deaf is using an interpreter, talk directly to the intern, not to the interpreter. The interpreter should be treated as an inanimate object. Focus on the relationship with the intern.

Use drawings, writing, and gestures to assist you in communicating.

Make sure lighting levels are adequate.

Be aware of jargon used on the job and avoid it whenever possible. For example, ADA could mean Americans with Disabilities Act, the American Dental Association, or average daily attendance. Additionally, ASAP (as soon as possible), and BCOB (by the close of business) could be confusing.

A person with a hearing impairment may wish to use a closed FM amplification system or sign language interpreter when participating in group activities. Upon request, these services should be made available by the career services Caregiver or the employer, depending on who is hosting the activity.

Find ways to fully include the person with a hearing impairment in group conversations. For example, repeat discussion questions and statements made by other participants in a meeting or presentation.

Speech Impairments

AHHC.

If you don't understand, ask and repeat back

Take as much time as necessary to communicate

Ask questions that require short answers or a nod of the head when appropriate

AHHC.

Some disabilities affect the ability to speak. Computer-based speech output systems provide an alternative voice for some people who cannot speak. Since electronic mail does not require the ability to speak, it provides an efficient medium for communication. The following suggestions will assist employers and career counselors in working with an intern who has a speech impairment.

Concentrate on what the person is saying.

If you do not understand something, ask the person to repeat what he said and then repeat it back to him.

Be patient; take as much time as necessary to communicate effectively.

When appropriate, ask questions which only require short answers, or a nod of the head.

Avoid communication in noisy, public places. Talk in a private, quiet area when possible, particularly when discussing things that apply only to her.

Do not speak for the person or attempt to finish his sentences.

If you are having difficulty understanding what a person is saying, consider writing or electronic mail as an alternative means of communicating.

Encourage the worker with a speech impairment to participate in discussions.

Specific Learning Disabilities

Because a person does not use a wheelchair, have hearing aids, or use a cane does not mean that she does not have a disability. Some disabilities are invisible. These include specific learning disabilities. Individuals with specific learning disabilities generally have average to above average intelligence, but may have difficulties demonstrating knowledge and understanding abstract concepts. Auditory, visual, or tactile information can become jumbled at any point when it is transmitted, received, processed, and re-transmitted. It may take longer for some people who have learning disabilities to process written information. Lengthy reading or writing assignments or tasks may be difficult to complete in a standard amount of time. Some people may be able to organize and communicate their thoughts in one-to-one conversations, but find it difficult to articulate those same ideas at a noisy worksite.

into directions; and computers with voice output and spelling and grammar checkers. Also be aware of environmental factors that tend to distract people. Avoid placing people who are easily distracted near high traffic areas and consider seat, window, and door placement in relation to them. Provide a quiet place for them to work.

AHHC.

The following suggestions will assist career services Caregiver and employers in working with an intern who has a learning disability.

Discuss with the person confidentially the best ways to communicate instructions. They may include written, verbal, or visual strategies, or a combination of several modes of communication. A tape recorder or electronic mail may be useful for relaying instructions in some instances. She may have developed methods for compensating for the limitations caused by her disability. Discuss options with her.

Once instructions are given, get feedback from the person to determine if they were understood completely.

Be patient when the person begins a new job. Decrease his stress level by assigning tasks that he can accomplish and build on his strengths.

Avoid spontaneous changes in the work schedule and environment. A consistent routine is best.

Reduce time pressures if possible.

Give assignments early and let the person pace herself.

Mobility Impairments

Office assistants

Group work assignments, note takers/scribes

Accessible worksite

Adjustable tables, equipment located within reach

Work assignments in electronic format

Computers with special input devices (e.g., voice, Morse code, alternative keyboards)

Mobility impairments range from lower body impairments, which may require use of canes, walkers, or wheelchairs, to upper body impairments, which may result in limited or no use of the hands. It may take longer for individuals with mobility impairments to get from one worksite to another. It may require special accommodations for them to get to field worksites or off-site meetings. Some people with mobility impairments find it difficult or impossible to manipulate objects, turn pages, write with a pen or pencil, type at a keyboard, or retrieve work-related documents without accommodations.

Examples of accommodations for interns and employees with mobility impairments include the provision of office assistants for specific tasks, accessible office locations, adjustable tables, equipment located within reach, work-related materials available in electronic format, and access to job-related resources on the Internet. Computers can be equipped with special devices such as voice input, Morse code input, and alternative keyboards. Job-related items need to be able to be reached and accessed, and wheelchairs and walkers need space. Avoid clutter and maintain a well-organized worksite.

AHHC.

The following suggestions will assist career services Caregiver and employers in working with a person who has a mobility impairment.

AHHC.

Offer to help (opening a door, carrying packages) if it makes sense. Ask yourself, "Would I want help in a similar situation?"

Consider a person's wheelchair or walker as an extension of his body. Therefore, leaning on the wheelchair or walker, or placing your foot on a wheel, is not okay.

Speak to a person who uses a wheelchair, walker, cane, or crutches in a normal voice strength and tone.

Talk to a person who uses a wheelchair at eye-level whenever possible. Perhaps you can sit rather than stand.

Feel free to use phrases such as "walk this way" with a person who cannot walk. Expressions such as this are commonly used by wheelchair users.

Health Impairments

Flex time

Note takers, audiotaped meetings

Electronic mail

Work assignments in electronic format

Telecommuting

Some health conditions and medications affect memory and/or energy levels. Additionally, some people who have health impairments may not be able to work full-time or on a daily basis. Part-time employment will be an important option for some people with health impairments. Be flexible and work to establish a reasonable schedule with workers who have health impairments.

Be aware that some health impairments are chronic and stable while others are sporadic (e.g., severe allergies) and require flexible and variable accommodations. Modify your placements, assignments, and/or methods to accommodate sporadic attendance. Additionally, allow for people with health impairments to take time off during the work day to take medication, have a snack (e.g., for a person who is diabetic), rest, or meet with professionals. They may also need access to a refrigerator to store food supplements or medication.

Be aware of medications that people may be taking and their potential physical, emotional, and cognitive effects. This is particularly important for people taking medications for conditions such as seizure disorders and diabetes.

AHHC.

Observe employees or interns with health impairments to determine if there are times during the day when they are more productive. Observe changes in moods, attitudes, quality of work, or general health. Report concerns to appropriate supervisory personnel.

Examples of accommodations for individuals who have health impairments include the provision of note takers and/or taped instruction; flexible attendance requirements; assignments available in electronic format; and electronic mail for Caregiver meetings, office discussions, and distribution of jobsite materials and notes. Telecommuting is sometimes a reasonable option for people with health impairments.

Psychiatric Disabilities

Be positive

Have high expectations

Be consistent

Make instructions clear

Provide positive feedback and suggestions

Meet with the person

People who have psychiatric disabilities are not always considered mentally ill. A person with an psychiatric disability may need to be provided with unique on-the-job accommodations to prevent from exacerbating behaviors that are not appropriate in the work environment. Applying the following suggestions will assist career services Caregiver and employers in working with an intern or employee with a psychiatric disability.

Be positive and expect the person to do well. Friendliness is always the correct road to take.

Be consistent. The person should know what to expect. Carry through with expected actions.

Make instructions clear. You may want to write instructions down as well as explain them verbally.

Reward and compliment good performance on the job. Criticism should be done privately. Provide positive suggestions for improving performance.

Meet with the person privately on a regular basis to determine if there are problems that can be "headed off" before they get out of hand. "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Introduction to PARTICIPATES CARE MANAGEMENT Program

PARTICIPATES CARE MANAGEMENT is a private, non-profit agency which is the designated regional planning, coordinating, funding, and advocating entity for long term care and other home and community based-supportive services for older adults and individuals with disabilities residing in Monroe, Washtenaw, Oakland, Livingston, and Macomb Counties. The PARTICIPATES CARE MANAGEMENT is funded through the federal Older Americans Act, the state Older Minnesota Act, and Medicaid funding from the Department of Community Health funding.

AHHC.

PARTICIPATES CARE MANAGEMENT Community Support Services (CSS) programs offer a continuum of care that includes non-Medicaid funded programs funded through the Minnesota Office of Services to the Aging (OSA), including the Community Living Programs (CLP), the Rapid Response Respite (RRR) program, and Community Care Management (CCM), as well as the Minnesota Department of Community Health Medicaid funded Home and Community Based Medicaid Waiver Program for the Elderly and Disabled (MI Choice).
